SLEEP.

When care hangs heavy on the mind,
And torturing thoughts corrode the heart:
When in abstracted charms we find
No cheering smile to soothe the smart,

The way-worn traveller in thine arms
Receives a health restoring balm:
The soul inur'd to dire alarms,
Enjoys a trouble-smoothing calm:

Then come and close these eyes of mine,
Repress this heart-distending sigh,
From mental roams my thoughts confine,
Save where Contentment's treasures lie:

Part of a Welch Sermon.

A bride should have nine qualifications beginning with the letter P.
viz. Piety, Person and Parts, Patience, Prudence and Providence, Privilege, Parentage and Portion: but that which should be first of all, and most of all in consideration, which is Piety, is now the least of all, & with many nothing at all; and that which should be least of all, and last of all in consideration, which is Portion, is become first of all, most of all, and with many, all in all.

In the rebellion a villain stole into the King's mews where the light horse were stationed and cut off the tails of all the horses in the regiment. When it was discovered the captain greatly vexed cried out among other ejaculations, "what must we do?" "Do!" said a wag near him, "sell them by wholesale." "Why so?" said the captain:—"Because," replied he, "it is plain to see we cannot re-tail them."

From the N. H. Patriot.

OUTRAGE.

On the night of the 25th of November, a banditti of Canadians, aided by their associates on this side of the line, went to the dwelling house of Mr. Samuel Hugh, of Canaan, Vt. and after a scene of unfeeling cruelty which exceeds in barbarity the outrages of their ferocious savage "allies," took him from his bed, tore him from his weeping wife and screaming children, and him on his horse, and after robbing his desk of his money, collected his whole stock of cattle, and drove him and them off to Canada. On the return of this gang of ruffians, robbers and smugglers to Canada, they robbed the farms of the Hon. Micajah Ingham and Daniel Goss, Esq. of all their stock of cattle, and drove them also to Canada. The only pretence to this unparalleled and insufferable outrage is, that Mr Hugh has sinned past forgiveness against Canadians and smugglers, by a very zealous and faithful discharge of the duties of an inspector of the customs; and that Judge Ingham and Mr. Goss are decided and influential supporters of their government. Mr. Hugh is still a prisoner in Canada.

EDUCATION.

MR. LEWIS, Principal of the Winchester Academy, advertises that he has taken charge of the above Institution, in which he instructs youth in the theory and practice of the various branches of academic study. His method or system of education is admirably calculated to advance his pupils in the principles of language, and facilitate them in their progress towards a refined and complete classic education.

In compliance with the solicitations of his friends, Mr. L. wishing to render himself more advantageous and useful to an enlightened public, proposes (when there shall be a sufficient number of applicants) to open a school on a new plan, containing two classes only, which shall divide his attention, the first of the Learned Languages, (the Latin and Greek,) and the second of English Grammar, to which he will devote his time and talents, and he pledges himself to teach young gentlemen of sprightly talents the languages in twenty months in such a manner and by such a system, as they shall have as perfect a knowledge of those branches as to spend four years in the common practice.

English Grammar will be taught to youth of genius in ten weeks upon the same principles and by the same system.

The branches of pure and mixed Mathematics, the various hands of Penmanship and Belles-Lettres, will be taught in a department devoted to them in the most correct manner. Also the rudiments of Literature, Spelling, Reading, &c. separated from the other rooms.

Lectures will be given on Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, and Chemistry when the schools are duly arranged.

For terms, apply to the Principal. Feb 4, 1815.
