

POETRY.

The following verses by Lord Byron, are probably as characteristic of the author's mind and manner, as any selection that can be made from the productions of his muse.

FAREWELL.
FAREWELL! if ever fondest prayer
For other's weal availed on high,

MISCELLANY.

Rules and Maxims for Promoting Matrimonial Happiness.

The likeliest way either to obtain a good husband or to keep one so, is to be good yourself.

Never use a lover ill whom you design to make your husband least he should either upbraid you with or return it afterwards, and if you find at any time an inclination to play the tyrant, remember these two lines of truth and justice:

'Gently shall those be rul'd who gently away'd,
'Abject shall those obey, who haughtily were obey'd'

Avoid both before and after marriage all thoughts of managing your husband. Never endeavor to deceive or impose on his understanding or give him uneasiness (as some do, very foolishly to try his temper)—but treat him always beforehand with sincerity, and afterwards with affection and respect.

Be not sanguine before marriage nor promise yourself felicity without allow; for that is impossible to be attained, in the present state of things.—Consider beforehand that the person you are going to spend your days with is a man and not an angel; and if when you come together you discover any thing in his humor or behaviour that is not altogether so agreeable as you expected pass it over as human frailty; smooth your brow, compose your temper, and try to compose it by cheerfulness and good nature.

Remember always that whatever misfortunes may happen to either they are not to be charged to the account of matrimony, but to the accidents and infirmities of human life; a burthen which each has engaged to assist the other in supporting. Therefore instead of murmurings, reflections and disagreements, whereby the weight is rendered abundantly more grievous, readily put your shoulder to the yoke & make it easier for both.

Resolve every morning to be cheerful and good natured that day; and if any accident should happen to break that resolution, suffer it not to put you out of temper with every thing besides, and especially with your husband.

Dispute not with him be the occasion what it will; but much rather deny yourself the trivial satisfaction of having your own will or gaining the better of an argument, than risk a quarrel or create a heart burning which it is impossible to know the end of.

Be assured a woman's power as well as happiness has no other foundation but her husband's esteem & love; which consequently it is her undoubted interest by all means possible to preserve and increase. Do you therefore study his temper and command your own; enjoy his satisfaction with him, share and soothe his cares, and with the utmost diligence conceal his infirmities.

Let the tenderness of your conjugal love be expressed with such decency delicacy and prudence as that it may appear plainly and thoroughly distinct from the designing fondness of a harlot.

Have you any concern for your own ease or for your husband's esteem; Then have a due regard to his income and circumstances in all your expenses and desire; for if necessity should follow, you run the greater hazard of being deprived of both.

Let not many days pass together without a serious examination how you have behaved as a wife; and if upon reflection you find yourself guilty of any foibles or commissions, the best atonement is to be exactly careful of your future conduct.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

The principal conversation in London, says the Baltimore American, relates to the approaching nuptials of the princess.—All accounts agree in representing this young lady as a very eccentric character.—She has taken it into her royal head to be a copy of queen Elizabeth, and accordingly, she says and does things very unlike the stately princess of modern times.

A pleasant anecdote is related of the princess, when cruising off Weymouth in her yacht, which gives a striking picture of her sentiments and conduct—Having come near to the Leviathan of 74 guns, she resolved to go on board of that ship—The Bishop of Exeter remonstrated against this visit, but in vain—go she would and go she did—When she came to the side of that large ship, she rejected the use of the state chair, and said she would go up like a sailor—having ordered Capt. Nixon to follow and take care of her petticoats, up she went, with the agility of an experienced seaman and let the bishop and her ladies come up in the chair—She went through every part of the ship, cockpit, powder room, &c. The sailors were delighted with her, to whom she gave a purse of money—She then descended to her yacht as she went up, and again left the chair for the use of the bishop and the ladies.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

THAT, agreeably to acts passed during the last session of Congress—

- 1. The duties on licences to retailers will, from the 31st of December, 1816, be reduced to those payable according to the act of Aug. 2, 1813. These licences will be granted for a year, except in case of an application for a license to retail between the 30th day of June and the 1st of January next, which will be granted for a period that will expire on the 31st of December next, on paying a sum which shall bear the same proportion to the duty for a year, according to the existing rates, as the time for which the license may be granted, shall bear to a year.
2. That the duties on spirits distilled within the United States, will cease after the 30th of June, 1816. To which period returns must be made of the spirits that may be distilled on or before that day.
3. That after the 30th day of June, 1816, new rates of duties on licenses, for stills and boilers, will take effect, which rates are as follows, in cents, for each gallon of their capacity:—

Table with columns: Domestic Materials, Stills, Boilers, Roots, Boilers. Rows: 1 week, 2 weeks, 1 month, 2 months, 3 months, 4 months, 5 months, 6 months, 1 year.

FOREIGN MATERIALS.

Table with columns: Stills, Boilers. Rows: One month, Two months, Three months, Four months, Six months, Eight months, One Year.

The provisions applicable to the duties on licenses to distillers, are, in general, the same with those laid by the act of July 24, 1813.—The most important of the new provisions are—that the duty is invariably to be paid in money, when that payable upon the still or stills, or boilers, licensed at any one time, does not exceed twenty dollars; that a deduction of 8 per centum is, in all cases, to be made for prompt payment; that in cases where the duties are bonded, they are to be given with two sureties at the least (instead of one as heretofore) and are to be paid at the end of twelve months, from the expiration of the license; that all stills are to be licensed, that are used, or kept in a situation for use; that a penalty lies against any person who shall keep in or about his distillery, any beer, or other liquor, prepared from grain, for the purpose of distillation, for more than eight days, without having a license; that a Collector is authorized to enter a distillery at any time, whether between the rising and setting of the sun, or at any other time.

In cases in which a license for distilling, shall have been granted, according to the present rates of duty, for a period extending beyond the 30th day of June, 1816, it is required, under a penalty for neglect that the person to whom the same may have been granted or transferred, shall, on or before the said day, apply to the Collector, and pay, or secure the payment of, the additional duty, according to the new rates, for the unexpired period of the license from the 30th of June.

New forms for bonds, will be prepared by the collectors and furnished to distillers on application.

NOTICE. SOME TIME in the year 1813, I gave a note of $56, payable in November 1815, to Draper Chipman of Bath County, bearing interest from the date; and he traded it to Col. Thomas Fletcher; and Fletcher traded it to Wm. M. Jamison, and I paid Jamison for the note and interest, which amounted to $63.28, and he gave me an order to Fletcher for said note and interest, but lifted the note himself. I do therefore forwarn all persons from trading for or taking an assignment on the said note, as I will not pay it again, unless compelled by law. THOMAS BOYD. 97-50. May 15. 1815. Cobbett's Political Register. On Tuesday the 21st inst. will be published, at No. 19, Wall-street, New-York, COBBETT'S WEEKLY POLITICAL REGISTER, NO 1, VOL. XXX.

WRITTEN in England, 6th January, to be continued weekly, as nearly as possible, and to consist, partly, of Mr. Cobbett's essays, which have been published in the corresponding numbers in England, with the addition of notes; but chiefly of matter from the same pen, wholly new, sent out from England in manuscript. The form of the publication is large octavo, the paper is of the best quality, and the printing executed in the best manner. The series of numbers will form a volume at the end of six months, and will be regularly pagged for that purpose, with a title page and index furnished. The retail price is 25 cents each number, with an allowance of 8 cents out of the 25 to booksellers and others, it being an instruction to us not to sell by retail ourselves, except at our office in New-York. Such gentlemen, therefore, as may think the work worthy of their attention, will please to apply to their own booksellers in their several neighborhoods, who, upon remittance to us, may depend on being supplied with whatever numbers they may order, and with all possible speed and regularity. We are instructed to say, on the part of our employer, that he laments the necessity of putting so high a price on his work; but that it was the only possible way of securing a chance of even a bare reimbursement of his expenses, to say nothing of any remuneration for the time and labor indispensably requisite to the prosecution of so arduous an undertaking. The subscribers have brought out with them some copies of the Register, vol. 29, which loses the last year. The price of these volumes, containing each 13 numbers, is 2 dollars 25 cents, with an allowance of 72 cents per volume to booksellers.

It is intended to publish the Register regularly, every Saturday, if the arrivals from England will enable us to do it. But it is hardly to be supposed, that that will be the case.—We shall, therefore, be obliged to miss a week, and sometimes to publish two Registers in one week, in order to publish fifty two numbers in the course of the year. We have brought out with us the seven first numbers, and we shall publish two numbers in a week, for the first three; after which, we shall publish only once a week, except in the cases before described. For the present, we shall publish every Tuesday, and every Saturday, and have the numbers ready for delivery at 8 o'clock in the morning, of those days. HENRY COBBETT, G S OLDFIELD No 19, Wall street, New-York.

We respectfully acquaint the public, that we will receive written orders from any bookseller, or other gentleman, for books to be imported from England; that the order may be for old books or new; for any particular book; for all new books generally; for all new books of a particular description, or branch of science, or literature, or for a collection of new books not exceeding a fixed sum. These orders we will transmit to England, where they will be executed, under the direction of Mr. Cobbett, with all possible speed, it being intended that there should be no delay beyond the first day, when the execution can take place.

The rate at which books thus imported, are to be charged, is, at 25 per centum above the retail price in England, exclusive of charges.—We have at our office, ample catalogues of English books, and will be happy to submit them to the inspection of any gentleman who may wish to see them. We will also receive, and carefully forward, any letters, or any communications, that may be sent to us, or delivered to us, for Mr. Cobbett. We request, that all letters containing orders for books to be imported, or containing communications for Mr. Cobbett, may be forwarded to us free of postage. HENRY COBBETT, G S OLDFIELD No. 19, Wall street, New York. May 17, 1816.
